Council's Homeroom Representatives Elected

"Homeroom representatives are Student Council's direct link between the council and the student body. It is part of the representatives function to be aware of the attitudes, opinions, and problems of the students and to present them to the council at general meetings.

"The seemingly insignificant homeroom representatives are actually a very vital part of Student Council," stated Bob Godshall, Student Council President.

The following are the Student Council representatives and alternates for the 1967-1968 school year:
 Juniors - 201, Vickie Carney, Vicki Crider; 224, Jon Graubarth; 325, Deborah Holka; 326, Jim Manion; 327A Bruce Paterson; 327B, Sue Raschke; 324, Peg Snyder; 327D Cookie Tourkow.

Alternates are Cathie Adkins; Jan Felman; Mike Darling, Pam Friedline, Sue Heiligenberg, Pattie Margolis, Shelley Nierenberg, Terri Sheets, Margie Sinder, and Sheila Veda respectively.
 Seniors - 122, Dave Bowers; 121, Dan Burdick; 120, Gail Fedolin; 119, Linda Hayes, Beverly Green; 118, Dave Krueger; 117, Juan Lara; 116, Bob Miller; 105, Sandy Ridenour; 104, Dwight Stomoff; 101, Shel- le Unger.
 Alternates are Donna

Becker, Sandy Cole, Jim Gershow, Sherry Johnson, Pat Little, Cindy Mueller, Dianna Quinn, Barbra Starbuck, and Jim Woessner respectively.

Fairview's National Merit Scholarship Finalists Announced

Four Fairview seniors have been named semi-finalists in the National Merit Scholarship competition. They are: Andrew Cogbill, Jerry Collett, Susan Fisler and Cindy Moeller.

The National Merit Scholarship Qualifying test is given in the second semester of the junior year. A specific quota of the students taking the test - less than one per cent of the graduating class in each state - are named semi-finalists. Almost all of these receive endorsement from their school and advance to finalist status.

Semi-finalists are required to declare their college and vocational choices. Cindy wants to study modern foreign languages at Northwestern University and to become an interpreter or a linguist.

Andy chose Antioch College and wishes to become an artist. That is, he says, "If I go to college."

Jerry selected PePauw University to major in English and his wants to be a writer or journalist.

Sue is spending the year in Norway as an American Field Service exchange student and was unavailable for comment.

Classes Present Their Future Plans

Dick Howard, Junior Class president, announced a Sing Out is coming to Fairview. We are going to be the first school in the Dayton area to sponsor a sing out this year. Tickets for the show, which will be presented on October 12, are 50¢.

This is just one of many plans the junior class has for making the thousand dollars needed for the Prom. They also intend to sell the school directories which give the names and addresses of the Fairview students and teachers.

All juniors will be asked to pay one dollar class dues per semester. If juniors pay their two dollars, then they can go to the Prom without paying additional fees.

The Prom regularly costs $3.50.

Facilities Highlight FHS

"Our physical education department area will more than double this year due to the added space and more modern equipment. The new locker and shower facilities, for both the boys and girls, are going to be larger and more up to date. The play area in the gymnasium proper is also much larger.

A new gymnastics room is being added which will allow the gymnasts to practice after school instead of during school time," boasted Mr. Ronald Bradley, Fairview's assistant principal. He went on to explain various other new additions to Fairview:

"The art department has been enlarged into two classrooms with newer facili-

Who Wrote 'School for Scandal'?

Painters, internal rhyme, explorers, and unknown authors proved to be the downfall of Fairview's 1967-1968 Teen Scene panel and participating audience.

On September 24, Fairview's panel, consisting of Andrew Cogbill, Robert Godshall, and captain Jerry Collett, battled the members of Colonel White's panel to a "photo finish" with Colonel White claiming the victory.

Throughout the entire program the two schools seldom had more than 100 points (one question) difference between them. It was only in the final seconds that Colonel White went in front to stay.

About fifteen F.H.S. upperclassmen, commanded by Helene Kasavan, composed Fairview's cheering section.

Credo Again?

Last year students of Fairview High School had an opportunity to express themselves by submitting their own written creations to be published in our literary magazine, Credo. Credo is an anthology of poems, short stories, one-act plays, dramas, anecdotes, artwork, both serious essays and light articles, and even sheet music. We, the staff of Credo, urge each of you to express yourself. This magazine can be only as good as you, the students, make it.

What's Happening At 4 A.M. In Rosario

By Juan B. Lara

In the morning to go to school. There, we must take from fourteen subjects in the first year to eleven in the last. We have six periods of forty-five minutes each, but we do not have all the subjects every day. After school we go back home to eat lunch, which is usually at 1 p.m. During the afternoon, assignments are done; sometimes they are very long. During exam time we are so busy studying, there is not much time to sleep. After homework is done, we spend our free time with friends or go to the clubs. These clubs are civic and public associations. The dues are low, and you can go to most of the games, sports, social and cultural activities they offer. I was a member of a club of fifteen thousand people. It had such activities as baseball, tennis, basketball, volleyball, rugby, soccer, wrestling, fencing, judo, gym, and hockey which is played on the grass. We also have free classes in folk dancing, guitar, art, English and French. There is also a free kindergarten.

Most parties are on Saturday from 10 p.m. to 4 a.m. where we meet our girl or boy friends. If you don't like to dance, you can go to the cinema or the theater. We prefer to invite our girlfriends to restaurants at night (it is more romantic that way). My city, Rosario (pop. 800,000) has night life until 4 a.m. on holidays; and 12 p.m. on the rest of the days.

We enjoy our free time immensely, but we do not forget that our country is waiting and working for us. We answer our parents and community's challenge by studying. We study because we want to be the men of tomorrow and because we want to help ourselves and our fellow men, and because we know that studying is the only way to reach our goals and ideals. I can assure you that each young person in Argentina is aware of his job and place in the community.

Happiness Is...

At the beginning of each school year, students' thoughts return to their more carefree moments — without term papers, circulars, and oral reports. To get a cross section of these thoughts, our reporter asked a number of students for their definition of happiness and received these replies:

Jerry Collett - "Happiness is remembering that Richard Sheridan wrote 'School for Scandal!'"
 Donna Becker - "Happiness is having my car work two days in a row."
 Andy Soifer - "Happiness is having no vegetables for dinner."
 Kathy Brubaker - "Happiness is getting out of a detention."

Pam Slaybaugh - "Happiness is no school."
 Mrs. Culp - "Happiness is a soft pretzel sale at 3:00 p.m."
 Maggie O'Connell - "Happiness is having Fairview win a football game."
 Bruce Everett - "Happiness is graduating."
 Beth Harlan - "Happiness is leaving Dayton."
 Mike Hutmier - "Happiness is making a pledge drink tobasco sauce."
 Tim Carroll - "Happiness is a charge-a-plate."

Frosh Fiasco

The freshman class has either a lot of indecisive boys or an inordinate number of good-looking girls. There were 99 nominations for Homecoming attendant from the class of '71.

The winner of that title, along with the rest of the Homecoming court, will be announced in the next issue of The Tower News (Oct. 20). Think you can wait?

His -N- Hers

By Sandie Goldberg

Seniors names are chosen at random.

A cloud of dust whirls down the baseball field. What is it? A bird, a plane, a dust storm? No, it's Howard Malovany making a home run for Fairview's baseball team which came in first in the city this year. What a lucky coincidence! Not only does Howard play varsity baseball, but also varsity cross-country. Oh, yes, and he is on our great basketball team which, as you remember, was second last year. Another coincidence?

Along with everything else, Howard is taking some extremely difficult subjects this year. Physics, Humanities, Calculus, and Advanced Composition are just a few. Anybody for homework?

As for class offices, Howard fills the bill by being Student Council sergeant-at-arms. "I don't have much time for many other activities," he stated.

College plans may include University of Michigan or Brown. "I am looking forward to it," said Howard.

Want to meet a female football player? Not that she's on the team or even the water boy (girl). She doesn't look like a football player at all! But the game is one of Judy Becraft's favorite pastimes — both in participating and watching.

If you hear "Rats!" as you walk down the halls, it has to be Judy. After all, that is her most often used expression.

Others of her favorites are the Righteous Brothers, physiology, and Mr. Gallagher.

Judy has a premium in school spirit. She is very active on pep committee, and spends a lot of time making posters for it.

What will she do when she graduates, and how does she feel about leaving Fairview? Judy plans to attend Cincinnati Bible Seminary, where she hopes to be a secretary. As for graduation — "I am kind of scared and glad. I guess I am all mixed up about going," Judy answered.

Essay On Education

Constance Barefoot's philosophy of education was chosen as one of the best from Miss Herbst's English classes.

The following is an excerpt:

"After a person has started learning, he will want to know the 'why' of some things. Usually he has the knowledge to find out 'why'. When he starts wondering, he starts analyzing the problem, unconsciously at first, and then, consciously. When a person studies the arts, he will begin wondering about the people who made these things. This will be his stimulus. He will want to know why someone did something. He will try to analyze the motives behind one man's actions. And when he feels he understands why that person did what he did, he will understand his fellowman. But his thinking will not stop here. Soon he will begin wondering who he is. He is part of this world, this beautiful world he has discovered. He will want to know his role in this world and he will want to know himself because he is the fellowman someone else wants to understand. Now he knows himself; and, because he does, he knows there is someone who made these things he has come to understand. He knows he cannot understand whatever or who ever made the universe. But he can understand his relation to his Creator. And, even though he may be proud of his understanding of the world about him, he humbles himself to the awe and mystery of his Creator.

Man's thinking can follow the above course, but it has to have help. This is where Man's education comes in. In elementary school a child learns the basic knowledge."

A resident of Dayton for 26 years, Mrs. Arenstein was born in Cincinnati and received her Bachelor's degree from the University of Cincinnati.

Parlez-vous francais? Maybe you don't, but this year's French II students are, while under the direction of Miss Michel Kloeters, Fairview's new addition to the French department.

Recently she returned home from a two year stay in Cameroon, West Africa, where she worked with the Ministry of Education teaching English to French high school students.

Miss Kloeters future plans include working on her Master's degree in French having fun."

"Fred, what's it mean to be a hippie?"

"Well, we're against the suppression of individuality, and generally obnoxious; we're against man's intolerance, which we protest by having week-long orgies."

"Would you mind clarifying that a little, Fred?"

"I'm not exactly sure what it means myself, but I'm having fun."

"Fred, how'd you become a hippie in the first place?"

"Well, it started in college. This one instructor I had was against free speech. Whenever I'd shout an obscenity during one of his lectures, he'd throw me out."

"I see. Fred, one thing I always wondered, if hippies are protesting their individuality, how come they all look the same?"

"The individuality of a person is relative to the uniqueness of his group in relation to the general trend; personal uniqueness needs be sacrificed to collective individuality."

"You want to run that past again, Fred?"

"Besides, if I dressed differently, they'd laugh at me."

"One more thing Fred, you can't be a hippie forever. What are you going to do when you are through protesting protesting?"

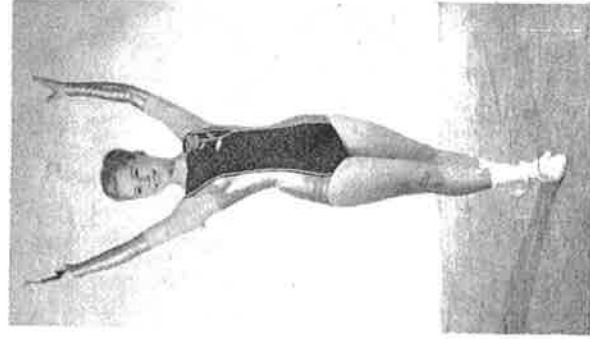

"I want to be a fireman."

Karen Rodberg, A Real Champ

By Maggie O'Connell

Did you know that right here at Fairview, we have a champion within our midst? Yes, Miss Karen Rodberg, achieved the title of United States Strutting Champion of 1967 this summer in Washington, D.C. She won this title with an excellent 90 second routine which she had practiced to the point of perfection in movement, stride balance, and showmanship. Competition for this championship began as the hundreds of strutters from all over the United States and Canada into age groups where each performance was judged by at least three judges. The top three competitors chosen from each group were combined into the divisions of six to eight, nine to eleven, twelve to fourteen, and fifteen to seventeen years of age or over. Then the big event took place. The first place winner of the competition in each division competed against each other for the National Championship. The divisionals and the Grand Strut-off were judged by the Olympic system, through which Miss Rodberg became victorious. Other titles earned by Fairview's talented senior co-drummajor are that of Ohio State Junior Strutting Champion of 1962, won in Troy, Ohio, United States Twirling Champion of 1964, won in Philadelphia, Penn., and Ohio State Strutting Champion of 1967, won at Baldwin Wallace College. She is the first girl ever to have won both national titles of United States Strutting Champion and United States Twirling Champion.

Although her fabulous ability and tremendous competitive spirit has moved her to all parts of the United States, Karen has decided to retire from competition. She now teaches both strutting and twirling at the Fred J. Miller Studio located in downtown Dayton.

Gates Coaches

Varsity Prospects

While all the Fairview fans are watching the varsity football team, little is known about the reserve team. To let you know a little more about the reserves, Tower News arranged an interview with Reserve Head Coach Gates, we have found that . . . . .

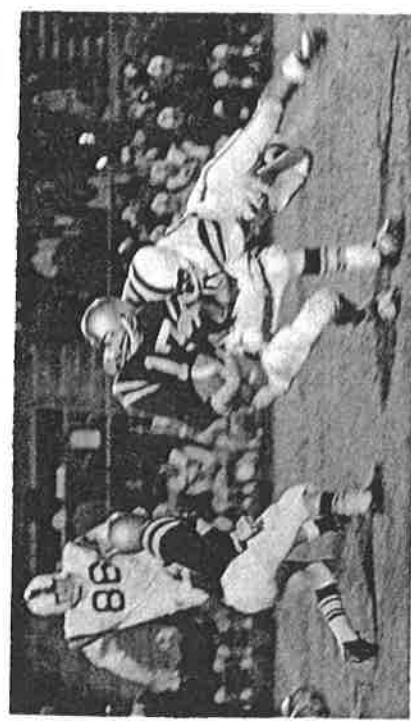

Jim Wodell and Dave Elliott are two of the finest varsity prospects to emerge from the reserve ranks next year.

Wodell, a sophomore halfback, has the quick reactions of a natural athlete. Although, not as fast as some players, his assets are those of his hands and reflexes. Jim can be described in one word; quick.

Dave Elliott, an exceptional reserve player, is an essential to defense at line-backing as he is at guard. Hard-hitting is a good definition for Bill Elliott's protege.

Another full-time varsity prospect is Don Dillingham, a sophomore who has already done damage to opposing varsity squads. He proved his capability at the Roosevelt game, where he scored the first touchdown of the season; a pass from Mark Scott.

So, all in all, Fairview should develop another fine varsity squad again next year, when these players join the "men" at Fairview.

Warming The Bench

By Mike Hutmier

It was a chilly Saturday evening at Welcome Stadium as the Fairview Bulldogs were preparing to take on the Wilbur Wright Pilots. I was planted on the playing field to get a story on the antics and happenings of the players and coaches.

The murmur of the chanting crowd could be heard clearly across the field. Suddenly, the Bulldogs emerged from their lair ready and willing to shoot down the Pilots. They burst onto the field through the line made up of the band and scotchettes, led by the cheerleaders. The partisan Fairview fans gave a roar of approval for their heroes.

The spirit was high and it could be detected in every player. The constant chant "Beat Wright" could be heard all through the pre-game exercises. Everyone was up for this one, they wanted it very bad.

The Bulldogs kicked off and the game was under way. The first half was highlighted by fumbles, interceptions, and penalties. The big play of the half came when Mark Scott intercepted a Pilot aerial and scampered 90 yards for the TD. But the officials called it back.

Dogs Crusade Against Vikings

By "Wild Bill" Elliott

Lost almost every starter due to graduation.

The Bulldogs have shown a new offense, the spread formation, the last two games and it seems to be working quite well.

The football team will also be trying to avenge the loss FHS suffered in basketball.

Last year after two losses suffered at the hands of The Vikings there were rumors that Miamisburg wanted to drop us from their schedule because we were to easy! This writer cannot help but wonder what excuse they will use this year?

unprintable. All this was to no avail as the 'Dogs trudged into the dressing room losing 22-6.

The halftime show featured the fabulous Fairview band, scotchettes and color guard. Looking at the Scotchettes made me want to forget my assignment. Oh, well!

The 'Dogs came back on the field after intermission ready for action. The grim looks of determination were scattered among the player's faces. I dared not step in their way for fear of being trampled to death on the soggy grass.

As the game was moving well along into the third period and the Bulldogs were advancing the ball downfield, the bench was starting to react to the teams aggressive movements. "Get in there Fairview" - "Hit 'em harder!" - "Be awake out there" - "You can do it big team." - "Let's win this one." - "Come on Scott, hang in there." "Let's go Jimmy." - "Score the big one."

The chatter must have helped the "hounds", because Scott threw a 5 yard "bomb" to Specker for the TD. After the conversion, the score was 30-14, in favor of Wright. But nobody was giving up now. With a whole period to be played, the Bulldogs still saw victory within their grasp.

The fourth period quelled any Fairview hopes for pulling it out. The Pilots scored three "quickies" in the final stanza to win 50-14.

The buzzer sounded to end the game and the Bulldogs walked dimly to the dressing room to prepare for the quiet ride home. Even in defeat the Bulldogs are still the greatest and they will be out there again tonight, battling the Miamisburg Vikings. They will be out to avenge an early season loss last year.

Guten Morgen, Herr Snoopy. I have a small problem that I would like to discuss with you. It seems that there is a crazy dog in my neighborhood that keeps straining my house in a Sopra with Camel. I have tried many times to shoot him down in a superior German Fokker, but I have failed. I feel that I am carrying my late husbands torch of hate for this little beast too far. Any suggestions?

Dear Baroness,
I have only one thing to say - "CURSE YOU, RED BARONESS!" *

Dear Snoopy,
I have a problem. My best friend (I'll call her Clyde) likes a boy who is new to the school this year. Well, it seems that Clyde expects this guy to walk up to her and say, "Hi, I love you!" Since he hasn't done this, she thinks he hates her, and is about to give up on him. How can I get it through her thick skull that she can't expect him to say that? Now, because of this, she's going back to the dirtiest, low-down guy in the world. She says she's got to have someone. How can I convince her that this is a big mistake? Please answer all my friends and I are desperate - What to do?
Psyche

Dear Psyche,
The best Charlie Brown advice that I can give is to tell her to look before she leaps. Stop - before she messes up both her life and her reputation completely. A girl's life is a great deal of nerve-racking waiting for the boy to make the move, and Clyde has simply got to accept this and play it cool. Being alone is better than going with some bum just for the sake of going with him. She'll soon end up with no decent boy wanting to look at her. Get her mind off men and onto school activities and organizations. Life has a lot to offer and Clyde will surely miss out if she keeps up at her present rate. *

Sing Out Explodes At FHS

By Cathy Wenclewicz

Sing Out, America's musical explosion, will be at Fairview on October 12. Sing Out Dayton will present their show, "Up With People," at 7:00 p.m., in the FHS auditorium. The show, consisting of fast moving music, lasts about two hours. It is a two hour testimonial of a way of life - Moral ReArmament. (M.R.A.) M.R.A. has been introduced into almost every part of the world including many Communist-held countries. One young Communist is quoted as saying, "If this is democracy, I'm all for it."

The three national Sing Out companies have been from Europe to Korea. Many people that the national casts have met have inspired songs that the casts now use.

Their beliefs and ideals can be summed up by the four absolutisms - absolute honesty, absolute purity, absolute unselfishness, and absolute love. They believe that "Freedom isn't free - You've got to pay a price, you've got to sacrifice for your liberty." They want to know "Which Way America is Going to Go - I'm gonna find the straightest road, and walk it to the end of time." They believe that all people are great - "You meet 'em wherever you go!" And they want to challenge you - Fairview - to sing out, too!

The "Up With People" program is being sponsored by the Junior Class. The tickets cost fifty cents and the difference in you could be worth a fortune!

FHS Teacher Visits The

Hippies In Haight-Ashbury

"Some hippies are genuinely concerned with the general state of our society or culture. Many are just hiding out trying to find their own identity," said Mr. Howard Gallaher, Fairview's psychology teacher.

Mr. Gallaher spent part of the summer visiting the hippies in the Haight-Ashbury district of San Francisco, finding out what this new movement in our society is all about.

Here are some of the impressions Mr. Gallaher got during his visits. "The hippies claim to be non-conformists and they laugh at the conformists in the "straight" society. The hippies are highly conforming in their own groups. The standard costume for the girls is short skirts, sandals, beads and long hair. The general wear for the men is sandals, ponchos, long hair, beads and beards. Even the stores along Haight Street have the same things in the windows to sell.

"They don't like the society the way it is. Part of this is antagonism that has always been present throughout the generations. It would make more sense to stay in society and try to better it. From a psychological point of view, their leaving the "straight" society is too much like a withdrawal or escape mechanism."

Mr. Gallaher feels this way toward the hippies in general: "I agree with some of their criticisms of today's society but I don't agree with the way they are trying to change it. I found them most interesting."

Has Fairview finally hit four problems facing man bottoms? Or has Fairview in the twentieth century - been hit by Bottoms? Mr. Bottoms purpose in presenting his pantomime was to show the dehumanization of mankind. Miss Herbst gave a short introduction to the play and asked the audience to imagine that Mr. Bottoms had been asleep and had been awakened by a computer. His pantomime dealt with His expressive emotion was so typical of man that he had the audience entranced. The play lasted about forty minutes and when it was over, Mr. Bottoms received a tremendous ovation from the audience.
